

Rules of registration for elective classes in the summer semester of the academic year 2023/2024

The registration for elective classes and modules is a token registration process performed in micro-tours. During a micro-tour a student sends their submission (declaration of a will to register for certain classes). After a micro-tour there is micro-interval, during which a student is informed if they were registered to a subject or not. Due to technical issues, it may be required for a student to participate in a number of micro-tours before the registration is complete. During the registration a student “pays” for the enrolment with tokens.

Remember:

1. Every student has a number of tokens equal to the number of credits and types of classes, which they should realise in the academic year 2023/2024;
2. Before the registration begins, the student is obliged to make sure that they have enough tokens to register for all the required classes;
3. Any shortage of tokens needs to be reported at least 24 hours prior to the beginning of registration (konrad.walkowski@uni.lodz.pl or magdalena.gorska@uni.lodz.pl);
4. Every student should register to the number of credit hours of elective classes in accordance with their programme of study in a given semester (see table below);
5. After the registration is over, every student is obliged to verify if they are successfully registered to all the required subjects;
6. In case any classes do not launch (due to an insufficient number of registered students), the student is informed on the matter via email. The message includes suggestions of changes or a notification about an automatic enrolment with a particular group (e.g. if only one group is launched).

NOTIFICATION: within one curriculum of a study programme one cannot choose the same classes twice or register for more credits than the required number.

“Prices” of classes in the token registry were settled as:

- Registration for a lecture – 1 token per credit hour.
